ARMISTICE SERVICES

The Armistice memorial services held in Blairmore on Sunday afternoon last were indeed unique and impressive and were attended by about 1500 people.

Mustering at the Central School, the procession was formed, including the pastors, Rev. Father P. J. N. Cosman and Rev. W. T. Young, Bellevue Veterans' Band, Veterans' Firing Squad, Honor Roll Flag, War Widows and High School Girls with wreaths, 400 School Children and Teachers, the Mayor and Council, Members of I.O.D.E. and Red Cross, general public, and Blairmore Band.

The procession was in charge of Capt. J. Angus McDonald and Capt. W. J. Fisher.

At the Catholic cemetery wreaths were placed upon four graves and an eloquent address was delivered by Rev. Father Cosman. Volleys were fired by the Cadets in charge of Lieut. W. Duff. Two hymns were sung, led by Bellevue Band and St. Anne's Choir.

Moving on to the General by 'silent cemetery', wreaths were laid upon the graves of eleven war heroes, and an address was delivered by Rev. W. T. Young. Here volleys were fired by the squad and the "Last Post" sounded. Hymns were sung, led by the choir of the Union church, without a hitch and the committee in.

The procession reformed and returned to the school grounds where the singing of the National Anthem concluded the program.

The programme was carried out without a hitch and the committee in charge deserve to be congratulated upon the successful issue of their service.

ODDFELLOWS' DISTRICT MEETING

The district meeting of the I. O. O. F. will be held at Bellevue on Monday night next. All Oddfellows are entitled to be present.

EMPLOY'S NEW CHIEF OF POLICE

The regular meeting of the town council on Monday night was attended by Mayor McLeod, Secretary Wright and Councilors McVey, Morgan, J. Angus McDonald, J. A. McDonald and A. Morency.

The minutes of previous meeting and of special meeting were approved as read and the following accounts were passed for payment: G. Lang $54.00, J. Howe $47.00, P. Barnetelli $3.85, Blairmore Hardware Co. $28.90, West Canadian Collieries $286.75, Northern Electric Co. $96.72, S. Ennis $38.00, L. Malara $38.00, M. Ben'sky $40.00, B. Serandil $28.00, E. J. Pozzi $1250.00, Blairmore Enterprise $24.50, J. E. Gillis $249.99, Alberta Government Telephones $8.25, Metals, Limited $25.51, Firemen $10.00.

A communication was received from the Department of Public Works in connection with the proposed courthouse site and a notice was given by Councilor Morgan that at the next regular meeting of the Council he would introduce a by-law providing for the transfer of property between the West Canadian Collieries and the town.

A communication was received from the School Board, asking that the town place shingle crossings in front of the central and ward schools. Council decided to attend to the matter at once. They would also take steps, as requested, towards controlling auto speeding in the vicinity of schools.

A communication from the provincial health department in re contamination of the creek that flows through the Pelletier Addition of the town, was ordered filed, but the council would endeavor to prevent further dumping of refuse matter near creek.

An application was made for special rate for electric current, but as a revision of the tariff is being made by the electrician, this communication was tabled for the present. It is expected the tariff, newly revised, will become effective January 1st.

The Council regretted not being represented at the recent convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities, held at Calgary, for questions such as the increasing of the Educational pall tax should have been discussed there.

Eight applications were received for the position of police chief, made vacant through the resignation of Mr. Carter, and the choice of the Council fell to John Spence, of Ardley. Mr. Spence is about thirty-three years of age, single, and has had considerable police and military experience. He was for a time clerk and police officer in the city of Brandon, Manitoba, and is highly recommended. Salary will be $150 with out commission. Duties to commence at once.

The Secretary was instructed to send out circular letters to municipal villages and towns requesting co-operation in the matter of having the educational minimum tax raised from four dollars to ten dollars.

The Secretary was instructed to have all by-laws printed and bound in consecutive order.

A vote of thanks was tendered by the Council to the committees and various local organizations and individuals that lent assistance towards the Armistice Memorial Services, particular mention being made of Rev. Father Cosman, Rev. W. T. Young, the I.O.D.E., the Red Cross, and the members of the Bellevue and Blairmore Bands and choirs of St. Anne's and Union churches.

Messrs. S. J. Sargent and George A. Pasmore are looking forward to a visit from their sons, Sidney Sargent and Virgil Pasmore. The boys are in the employ of the U. S. navy department and expect to visit Blairmore for a few days before the end of the month.

MAJOR WALKER HAPPILY LOCATED IN ENGLAND

A letter has been received from Rev. Major Walker, in which he wishes to be remembered to all his old friends in Blairmore.

The major is now located in the parish of The Poplars, Norwich, where he is kept busy in connection with a large congregation in a beautiful church. Lately he was equipped with a comfortable and commodious parsonage, where the major and his wife, and little daughter are residing happily and contented.

The British Empire Must Be In Harmony On Foreign Policies

London.—Speaking at the annual Lord Mayor's banquet at the Guildhall, Premier Bonar Law dealt with the foreign policy of his Government and laid special emphasis on the fact that British foreign policy must have the support of the Dominions throughout the Empire.

"The fact is," said the Prime Minister, "that in the late war the great Dominions sprang into manhood in their relations to the Mother Country and there were changes in that hour. They will never be the same again. As Lord Curzon said, in all our policy we have to think not only of public opinion at home, but have to take the very means in our power to make certain that we have the support of public opinion throughout the Empire."

"I think also it is no disadvantage—not to put it any higher—that just at the time when these Dominions have reached manhood, a man born in one of them should be prime minister."

Referring to conditions in the Near East, Mr. Bonar Law said: "You know what the position is at the moment in Constantinople, I cannot tell you anything new except this, that so far all the Allies are acting with the most complete harmony and without animosity. I say this also that it is as I have every reason not only to hope but to believe, that continues, I am sure the difficulty will be overcome. There is only one way at this moment by which peace can be secured and the troubles of Europe overcome, and that is that the Allies who won the war together, should act together in securing the peace which they alone can secure. If I speak of only two of them, it is not because I do not think of the others, but because these two are especially interested in the trouble in the Near East."

"I shall speak first of Italy. We do not forget that Italy came into the war at the most critical time of the war. We do not forget that she suffered as much, probably, as any other nation; and that it was precisely the invasion of Italy by the Germans five years ago which made the clouds look so black. The people of this country do not forget these things, and whatever froth there may be at the surface there is a deep sense of comradeship with the nation that played that part."

"And what about France? You may find what you see in French and English newspapers, but this generation at least will never forget the part we played together in the great crisis in the history of the world. (Cheers.)

"All these things are not going to be forgotten. There is only one way best results can be secured—unity of purpose."

Yukon River At Dawson Open Dawson.—The Yukon River is still open at Dawson with slow moving ice running between here and Selkirk. South of Selkirk the river is clear. The winter has been comparatively mild so far.

Be fair to your local merchants. Ask to see his goods and compare prices before sending your money to the mail order houses. You will find that it pays.

Woman Injured By Stray Bullet Bear River, Mont.—A stray bullet, believed to be from the rifle of a hunter, entered a window at the home of Mrs. Edwin M. House, of Wallace, while Mrs. House was telephoning. The bullet clipped off two of the woman's fingers, fractured her jaw and finally lodged in her shoulder.

Several gasoline explosions occurred making the work of firefighting dangerous. The fire started in the workshop at the back of the garage and spread so quickly that the workmen barely had time to get out without being burned.

Woman Injured By Stray Bullet Bear River, Mont.—A stray bullet, believed to be from the rifle of a hunter, entered a window at the home of Mrs. Edwin M. House, of Wallace, while Mrs. House was telephoning. The bullet clipped off two of the woman's fingers, fractured her jaw and finally lodged in her shoulder.

Turks Are Warned By Britain That They Are Courting Trouble

London.—Great Britain refuses to purchase peace with the Turks at the cost of "humiliation and disgrace," Marquis Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared in the course of an address at the Canon Street Hotel.

"The attitude of the Kemalists, reflected in their recent demand that the Allied troops leave Constantinople, will not be tolerated, he added, and he gave his warning to the Turkish Nationalists that they will come to their disaster if they venture to oppose their military power to the strength of Great Britain and the might of Europe."

"The gravity of the situation in the Near East was emphasized by Lord Curzon when he termed it "the most definite menace to the peace of the world."

He asserted the Turkish pretensions were without justification and could not be tolerated.

"There is only one way whereby you can make peace," declared Lord Curzon, "and that is by absolutely harmonious action between the principal powers."

"The policy of the Turks is one of nationalization gone wild and is at most suicidal in its character."

"There is absolute accord between the Allied Generals and High Commissioners on the spot. Turkey must learn that there is a limit to the concessions which we are willing to make her."

Lord Curzon said the recent Turkish action was a complete answer to the largely self-styled agitation among the Indian Moslems representing this country as "leaders to Islam."

The Turks had themselves done the very things Great Britain was represented as doing at.

DISCUSS FRANCO-CANADIAN PACT

MINISTER OF FINANCE CONFIDENT OVER RESULT OF CONFERENCE

Paris.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance for Canada, who, with Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has been holding a series of conferences here with M. Dief, French Minister of Commerce and representative of the Foreign Office, with a view to settling various commercial questions of mutual interest to France and Canada, addressed a meeting of British traders. Mr. Fielding said that although it was impossible at present to announce any details of the proposed new treaty, he was able to say that he and his colleague had been received by the French minister in the most cordial manner and he had every reason to believe most satisfactory arrangements would result from the conference.

Urges Sun Cure For Tuberculosis

Statistics Support Theory Advanced By French Doctor

Paris.—More extensive use of heliotherapy or sun baths in the treatment of tuberculosis has been urged upon the Academy of Medicine by Dr. Amand Deltile. He reported that a number of tubercular cases and also sufferers from pneumonia had been cured by sun baths in various sanatoria in Southern France.

The sun cure was further praised by Dr. Maurice Benoit, who declared it was beneficial for cancer.

Statistics were presented to the Institute to show that cancer is unknown in the tropics and prevalent in colder countries in proportion to their lack of clear sunshine.

LARGE WHEAT CROP IN ARGENTINE

PRODUCTION IS MANY MILLION BUSHELS OVER OTHER YEARS

Ottawa.—According to a cablegram received from the International Institute of Agriculture, the preliminary estimate of production of wheat in Argentina is 215,315,000 bushels against 180,643,000 last year, and 171,018,000, the average of the five years, 1916-20. The area sown to wheat in Argentina is 16,681,000 acres, against 13,927,000 last year and a five-year average of 16,149,000. The area sown to wheat in Australia is approximately 10,000,000 acres, against 9,857,000 last year, and an average of 9,858,000. Crop prospects in Australia are fine.

Fire Destroys Eleven Autos

Origin of $25,000 Blaze in Gavelburg Garage Unknown

Gavelburg.—Fire caused a total loss of $25,000 when Deanna's Garage was burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is unknown. All the stocks of repairs, oils and eleven cars were destroyed, only one car being taken out of the burning building before the flames drove the firefighters out.

Several gasoline explosions occurred making the work of firefighting dangerous. The fire started in the workshop at the back of the garage and spread so quickly that the workmen barely had time to get out without being burned.

Woman Injured By Stray Bullet Bear River, Mont.—A stray bullet, believed to be from the rifle of a hunter, entered a window at the home of Mrs. Edwin M. House, of Wallace, while Mrs. House was telephoning. The bullet clipped off two of the woman's fingers, fractured her jaw and finally lodged in her shoulder.

Mild Winter Predicted

Trappers Say Animals Not Preparing For Cold Weather

North-Bay, Ont.—Residents of the northern woods, long famed for their prophecies in regard to coming weather, are unanimous this fall that all signs point to an unusually mild winter.

In support of this forecast, visiting trappers state definitely that the beavers are, dilly-dallying unprecedentedly with the construction of their winter homes. Observers also state that chipmunks and squirrels are collecting extremely small stores of food for the coming months.

Coal Miners May Strike

Eleven Hundred Miners in Edmonton District May Walk Out

Calgary.—Approximately 1,100 miners employed in the Edmonton field may go on strike soon unless the United Mine Workers of America receive recognition from the operators in this district, according to William Sherman, President of the U.M.W.A. of District 18.

If the situation crystallizes and results in a strike, it will be the most serious labor trouble that has affected the mining industry in District 18 since the settlement of the big miners' strike last fall, officials say.

Conference Held At Ottawa To Discuss Immigration Question

Ottawa.—Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Immigration, recently addressed the conference on immigration here, in which the minister said he was naturally greatly interested in an effort being made to get settlers, and was sure that the conference would produce good results.

He said it was the policy of the Government to lead when it was needed, and he appreciated receiving in concrete form the results of the experience of the various transportation representatives. He also expressed the hope that such conferences would be held frequently in the future for it was only through hearty co-operation and through the co-ordinating of efforts that the best results could be obtained.

Today British and continental immigration received attention. Owing to the presence today of J. Obed Smith, Superintendent of Immigration for the Dominion Government in London, and Sir George McL. Brown, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the members had the benefit of first-hand information on the situation both in the British Isles and on the continent. The two gave an outline of the measures they considered necessary for the doing of effective immigration work overseas.

It came out during the discussion that the Government has under consideration the extending of an invitation to those countries where desirable settlers may be secured, and who are eligible for citizenship.

A feature of the conference was the spirit of hearty co-operation manifested. The co-ordinating of effort on the part of transportation and colonization interests with the Government will, it is said, produce especially good results in the publicity and advertising work, eliminating much duplication.

It is understood that as a result of the conference the Government will invite the transportation interests to assume responsibility for a smaller standing committee to co-ordinate all the publicity efforts of the parties involved.

Republicans Control Congress

Are Able to Retain Office by a Narrow Majority

New York.—Republicans control of the House of Representatives of the 68th Congress was determined, finally by announcement of the election of R. Scott Levitt, second Montana district, giving the Republicans the necessary 215, or a majority.

Washington.—The United States watched with intense interest the up and tuck race for control of the House of Representatives, the closest since the war-days of 1916. It saw most of the Republican leaders stand up against the onslaught, and it also saw scores of men brought in by the Republicans were two years ago on with the Democratic undertow.

Resume Construction Of B.C. University

Government Will Advance Money For Completion of Buildings

Victoria.—An immediate start on the construction of the Provincial University Buildings in Port Grey municipality, close to Vancouver, will be made by the British Columbia Government, Premier John Oliver announced. Buildings commenced several years ago and partly erected will be completed as soon as possible. The Government will advance the money for the work.

The first outlay on construction will be $1,000,000.

U. M. W. OF A. ELECTIONS

There is likely to be some keen competition in connection with the election of officers in District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America, according to information circulated.

It is said that while there has been no opposition to William Sherman, the president, E. Mallabone, of Canmore, will contest the position of secretary-treasurer, held at the present time by Robert Peacock. William Ryan, the vice-president, will have two opponents—Dr. Grant, of Bellevue, and Brant Matthews, of Rosedale.

There will be a keen fight in connection with the position of international board member, which has for a considerable time been held by Robt. Livett. Those who are opposing him are Rod McDonald, of Blairmore; Frank Wheatley, of Blairmore; John Brooks, of Bellevue, and C. Hesketh, of Fernie.

FERNIE SPORTS BUSY

The Fernie "Swastika" ladies Hockey Club held a grand season opening dance on Tuesday night in Victoria hall, and as a result are in a position to start the season in good financial standing. The "Swastikas" gave a splendid account of themselves on the Blairmore arena last winter and we understand are coming out again with even greater confidence. Last season they defeated two Calgary teams. They next plan to attend the Banff winter carnival and will challenge the Vancouver Amazons for the women's hockey championship of Canada.

The Fernie devotees of curling have made elaborate plans for the season. Several changes were made in rules laid down in the Fleishman and Ingram cup competition, and it is believed these changes will revive interest. The Fernie Senior Hockey Club also is well under way and will be composed of four teams, the Coal Co., the Bluebirds, the Northern and the 150's.

It is certainly expected that games will be arranged with Blairmore, Coleman and Bellevue.

MAGGIE AND JIGGS AT THE GOLDEN GATE

Bellevue, Alberta,

November 10th, 1922.

To The Editor,
Blairmore Enterprise.

Dear Sir:
In the issue of The Enterprise for October 26th, there appeared a poem under the above heading, while beneath it was inserted the author's name, George Bradshaw, in Marquette Magazine.

Seeing that the poem was read and enjoyed, not only by the readers of The Enterprise, but by readers of other journals and magazines in which it appeared, perhaps a brief history of the poem might interest some readers.

It might also be news to some to learn that the poem in question appeared in the Newcastle Chronicle, a newspaper owned and edited by Joseph Cowen, M.P., for Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, in the year 1865.

It is only fair to state, however, that when the poem was first published, the author's name was omitted, and that for 33 years it went wandering around, like Jacob in search of a father, until Mr. Bradshaw took it under his paternal care, and after altering a few lines, and adding a few lines to it, bestowed his name upon and passed it on as his own offering. We might also add that in the early part of last year the poem in question was re-published in the Newcastle Chronicle, and since then appeared in more than one Canadian publication. The reason why it was published minus the author's name is easily explained. Thirty five years ago trades unions were not popular, even in merry England, and at that time yours truly was working in the mines in South

Durham, but, having earned the unenviable reputation of being "an agitator" and getting "blacklisted" through being officially co-opted with the miners union, he was obliged to seek fresh fields under an assumed name—in the words of Bobby Burns: "Beg a brother of the earth to give him leave to toil."

But in order to "rendey unto Caesar that which is Caesar's," let us give credit to Mr. Bradshaw for what belongs to him. The original title of the poem was "St. Peter at the Golden Gate."

While the man was supposed to be a "pit-boss" and a jolly old sport, his wife was supposed to be a moral reformer of the militant type; hence the description in: "The woman was tall and dark and thin,

With a scattered beardlet on her chin,
The man was short and thick and stout,

And his stomach was built so it rounded out."

This was a fair description of George McManus' entertaining characters, although the poem was in existence about twenty years before he introduced it to the public. And now for substitutions: On the 9th, 11th and other lines, Maggie and Jiggs are substituted for man and woman. The 42nd line, "He ate the best we had in store," is changed to read "He gadded about with Dinty Moore." "I've brought my rolling pins, plates and jars, To keep him dodging among the stars," also belong to Mr. Bradshaw and gives the poem a smack of originality. The rest did not require alteration.

However, the fact that I have been reciting "St. Peter at the Golden Gate," for thirty years and introduced it to audiences in Blairmore at least six times within the past ten years, proves it to be at least as old as a spring chicken.

Again, during the year 1916, I was employed as janitor at the Coalhurst schools and when the schools closed for the summer holidays, I decided to use my spare time in raising funds for the Red Cross, and under the alias "Prof. Jayot" (ab-Janitor) by lecturing, reading hands, heads and hypnosis, I succeeded in raising over $700.00 for that very deserving cause.

One of my first professional engagements was in Blairmore, where I assisted Mrs. J. M. Carter and Mrs. R. Green with their bazaar, which was held in the church, and thanks to these energetic officials was a financial success. But as I carefully avoided cities, towns and camps where I was known, few persons are aware that "Prof. Jayot," from U.S.A., when de-naturalized was old John Loughran.

Ten (10) Years Experience in Calgary.

British M.P. Is Impressed With The Imperialistic Spirit To Be Found In Canada

Sir R. Burton Chadwick, M.P., before his departure for England, gave utterance to the following remarks regarding his impressions of Canada:

I have been in Canada for a short, all too short month, and every day of that month the question has been put to me—"What do you think of Canada?"

Well, I am sailing away on the Express of Scotland, and perhaps some of the many friends who have been so good to me may be interested in my reply to the above question.

I am too old a traveler to be lulled into the belief that there are few weeks' sojourn in some place of interest en route. I have seen an account of one's experiences. Less experienced, I might fail, as so many have failed, to the temptation of writing a book, and the world would be enriched and Canada uplifted by something such as—"A Jaunt Through"—"Wanderings In"—"The Awakening Of"—I might even rise to the ponderous dignity of "Canada."

In my case, the title "When Winter Comes," would be significant, but perhaps a little indelicate and shoppy in a coal merchant who has been using the slogan in an endeavor to succor Canada in her extremity. I may sell coal, but at least I can sell as a gentleman.

Nor will I attempt to survey the great questions which are before Canada and before the British Government in relation to Canada at the present time. One may spend a lifetime and gallons of ink and compute the little in the attempt to treat these vast subjects if one takes them too widely. I am for the moment a member of the British House of Commons, a privilege of which I am proud, and from the back benches of that historic chamber I take my humble part with some 700 others in the administration, or maladministration, of some of the affairs of all of the four hundred odd million people comprising the Commonwealth of Nations known as the British Empire.

I have only been in Canada for a month, but in that time I have had the great advantage of meeting many Canadians—distinguished and undistinguished—in all walks of life from Prime Minister to laborer—and even potter, and I have learned a great deal, particularly about Eastern Canada, and I return to London impressed more than ever with the resources, the opportunities, the possibilities, the untapped wealth of this vast Dominion, but realistic as I am, I realize that as it is not possible to realize looking across from England, two great factors—namely, the magnificent imperialism of the Canadian people and their intense desire for closer relationship, socially and commercially, with the Old Country.

One may be told that one need not look further back than 1914 for more than ample evidence of this, and it would be perfectly true. But the war is now passing into history, and the terrible trials and hardships of the aftermath through which we are passing are so absorbing that there is danger of our vision being obscured and of our failing to appreciate and recognize.

The opportunity to visit Canada comes to relatively few of the forty-five millions of our people, and therefore I feel that those who are fortunate enough to be able to see and learn for themselves, particularly if they are men and women of public life, carry a great responsibility.

Cattle For The Christmas Trade

Liberal Grain Ration Will Put Stock In Prime Condition

The early December markets cater to the Christmas trade and invariably show a premium on choice fat cattle over the general run of good stock. Choice cattle for the Christmas market can scarcely be too fat and farmers having near-finished stock of good type might do well to prepare the same for the holiday trade and benefit by the increased price per pound of gain.

Three to four weeks additional feeding on succulent fodder combined with a liberal grain ration will put such stock in first-class condition and return a good margin over cost.

Wealthy Man (to beggar)—No, I shall not assist you, and you needn't envy me my riches. With all my wealth I'm wretched, for I'm a martyr to indigestion.

Beggar—Well, your lord, I've heard a lot about indigestion, but I've never had the chance of "eating it." All I ask is, guv'nor, gimme the chance!

Success Of School Fairs

Saskatchewan Organizer Expresses Gratification at Interest Taken in Exhibitions

Gratification is expressed at the interest shown in the school exhibitions in Saskatchewan by H. Saville, organizer of Boys' and Girls' Clubs in his annual report. Approximately 225 school fairs were held this year, which, he says, justifies the statement made by the director of school agriculture that the further development of school exhibitions would be along the lines of better organization and more efficient correlation with the regular school routine, rather than in the increase of numbers.

Price lists at these fairs, says Mr. Saville, varied considerably, but the most suitable prices in the agricultural classes were those given at Tregreva, including a pure-bred animal, pure seed potatoes and settings of eggs.

Owing to the fall fairs coming at a busy season, in some instances difficulty was experienced in obtaining transportation for livestock, reducing the number shown this year, compared with 1921. The exhibits, however, were of fine quality, and most of the animals were shown in splendid condition, the calf exhibit at Carleton Place, serving special mention, declares Mr. Saville, in his report.

The former practice of exhibiting the largest specimens of vegetables obtainable is gradually disappearing, says the organizer, who expresses the opinion that the children now are paying greater attention to quality, and realize that size in most cases is not a very important consideration. In concluding his report, Mr. Saville expresses further gratification in the fact that the public is realizing that the school exhibitions are not an activity for teachers only but a community organization; at the extent to which boys' and girls' club rules have been adopted by the leading exhibitors, and the extent to which the school exhibition is being made a vital part of the educational programme of every wide-awake community.

Home For Drug Addicts

Administrator of Narcotic Drugs Act in Manitoba Estimates Cost at $100,000

Establishing a farm where dope users may be taken and treated, and the advisability of allowing only one retail drug store to sell narcotics on a form of prescription provided by the administration of the law, was advocated by D. J. McConnell, administrator of the Narcotic Drugs Act in Manitoba.

He declared the situation in Manitoba was good in comparison with any other province in the Dominion or state in the United States. Mr. McConnell estimated the number of dope fiends in Winnipeg at between 55 and 100 persons. There was approximately 15 in prison at the present time, but the system of placing addicted users in jail is futile and had shown little power to obtain permanent cures.

The proposition to buy and equip a farm for the housing of drug addicts would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and it is hoped to get the cooperation of both Provincial and Federal Governments.

Manners Different

The Englishman, the Frenchman and the American, all think each other extremely bad-mannered. The Frenchman, resents the manners of the Englishman and tolerates the crudities of the American. The Englishman has a contempt for the manners of both the French and the American, and the American comes to Europe humbly, thinking that his manners are probably the worst and willing to learn, only to find that they are as good as the French or English manners, but very different. Milwaukee Journal.

Brains and Breakfast

A majority of American doctors have subscribed to the opinion that big breakfasts are good for us. May I remind them that an American who enjoyed the friendship of Ralph Waldo Emerson declared that the habit of eating "pie for breakfast" was unquestionably the cause of the premature decay of that eminent philosopher's mental powers?—London Sunday Pictorial.

"Out after hours again, hey?" said the father.

"Only ten minutes late," replied his son.

"Well, go at once to your room, stick yourself in bed and sleep the key." This thoughtlessness must be checked."

Language of The Sea

Many Of Our Common Expressions Are Nautical Terms

Describing a man's conduct in business, a judge said it was obvious that the man in question was fond of "sailing too close to the wind." The judge used a nautical term pure and simple. When a vessel sails too close to the wind her progress is stopped, she drifts away from her course, and trouble is bound to follow.

Often we talk of a man "bailing from" such and such a country. This is a term used at sea when vessels "bail" to one another by means of a pump. A man in difficulties is described as "out of his depth," or having "lost his bearings." Both terms are understood at sea to mean that a vessel is prevented by something from keeping a safe course.

When a person wants to know another's thoughts, he "sounds" him. That is just what a vessel does when she wants to know where she is—she sounds with a line and lead.

If a man feels that he is losing ground he tries to "make up leeway." "Leeway" is the distance lost by a ship "blowing" to windward, through her hull slipping out of the wind's track to leeward. Such distance must be made up by skillful maneuvering.

"On one's beam ends," "low ebb," and "at longheads" are common expressions which have the tang of the salt sea in them. We use them without thinking of their origin.

Four Million New Trees

Fair Sized Forest For Every Farm In The Province

Distribution of four million trees, enough to constitute a fair sized forest, is the inspiring programme of the forestry farm for which Mr. James McLean, the superintendent, and his helpers are preparing. The objective of the leaders of afforestation is a plantation of one or two hundred on every quarter section. There can be no exaggeration of the value of trees to any community. It is not as timber that Saskatchewan needs them but as pleasant variations of the prairie features and as protection to crops which suffer annually from wind—Saskatoon Star.

Suspicious Generosity

Uncle Tins Wade—"Bobby, if you'll run over to the store for me I'll give you a dime for your trouble."

Bobby—"What's the matter, with the dime? Has it got a hole in it?"

Little Dorothy had accompanied her mother on a shopping tour. When they were about to return home her mother asked: "shall we walk or take a car, Dorothy?"

"Oh!" answered the little maid, "I'd rather walk if 'oo will carry me."

Stella Tells Pimble About a Harmless American Snake.

HAT'S a "Cooshy Snake," Stella! asked Stella of the Fairies, who live at the end-of-the-Earth with many Brownies, Pimble, Snopkins, Kinkajou and Lorykins.

"It's easy to know where you have been," laughed the Fairy, instead of answering his question.

"Where?" he questioned. "I'll give you three guesses."

"I don't need three. All I need is one."

"You have been in the middle part of the United States. Am I not right?"

"You certainly are!" and Pimble's eyes were wide with astonishment. "But just how did you know?"

"Because 'Cooshy' is a nickname the Indians and Negroes in those States have for a certain 'Black snake' that is also known as a 'Whipsnake'." The Fairy burst out laughing at the little Brownie's expression. "You see, she said it was easy to guess. Come, sit down by me," she added, and I'll tell you about it. The Whipsnake of India and the Malay countries are long, slender, whipsnake-like green tree serpents. They are poisonous, and the natives even claim that they dart straight at the eyes of people passing them. But of course this is nonsense! They are protected among the grasses and through the bushes without causing a single leaf to even quiver. Now, the Whipsnake of the United States is entirely a different thing. To begin with, Stella explained, it is black instead of green, and the natives there are convinced that if you follow and tease it it will turn and whip and lash you with its tail—therefore its nickname. In spite of the fact," she added, "that it is absolutely harmless and does no harm to one that I know of."

"I should think not," cried Pimble, who is mortally afraid of any and all snakes.

"Baby Whipsnake!" Stella continued, as she threw an arm around the frightened Brownie, "are quite different from the parent. They are pale gray above with big brown blotches on the back and sides of black spots on the sides. When they are a year old they grow much darker, and these markings are not as clear as before. When two years old they are just as shiny black as their mother."

"The reason people so often fear these Snakes is that when they are angry they do thrash the ground around them with the tail, but as they can only reach a couple of feet they cannot reach the ground. They feed on frogs, birds and smaller snakes and often climb trees to rob nests of the eggs."

"As for their own eggs," Stella continued after a pause, "about twenty to twenty-five are laid in soft, moist soil, on sunny banks or under flat stones in June or July. They are slender, oblong and snow white. If you should touch one you would see that its satiny skin feels as though it were covered with coarse bits of sand."

"Other Snakes' eggs seldom have this kind of toughness to the touch. It's quite distinctive to the eggs of the Black or Whipsnake."

"Goodness! I would not touch them. Let's talk of something else," said Pimble.

The Whipsnake Fairy smiled for she is very fond of Snakes.

Gibraltar As Aviation Base

Spanish Aviation Magazine Says Historic Rock Will Become Huge Air Station

The Great Britain plans to make Gibraltar the most formidable base for aviation in the whole world is stated by the Spanish aviation magazine, Aerea.

"The British," says this journal, "have of recent years held much stress on the fact that, owing to changed conditions of modern warfare, both on land and sea, Gibraltar, to a great extent, has lost its former strategic importance. But the historic rock now enters a new phase. British engineers are busy planning the transformation of Gibraltar into a huge subterranean air station. The hillside will be tunnelled in all directions, with great cellars in which great fleets of aeroplanes and dirigibles will be in absolute safety from enemy attack. Huge oil tanks, repair shops, bomb and aerial torpedo stores will be complete in the mighty arsenal."

"In the centre of the rock a large hall will house the planes, with galleries running in all directions to outside landing stations. There will be several tiers connected with each other by powerful elevators. This plan will enable the British to concentrate the largest air fleet ever seen in the world in a place of absolute safety, and any moment to fly forth to support naval squadron or undertake operations over a very wide radius of action."

"Gibraltar will thus regain its former importance as a strategic base, and will remain the strongest point against whom nobody will dare attempt to dispute British sovereignty over the columns of Hercules."

Vacant Land In Australia

Aviologists Travel 6,000 Miles Across Empire

Not long since an expedition of three motor cars completed a successful 6,000-mile trip across Central Australia, from Adelaide on the south coast to Port Darwin on the north, and back, in 67 days. Experienced travelers and scientists in the party were anxious to find thousands of acres of fertile and well-watered soil and vast grazing plains in this unsettled country.

They passed through miles of country without sign of man or beast, and saw great stretches of land with many rivers available for irrigation purposes, the development of which is dependent upon the building of a north and south transcontinental railroad and the introduction of settlers.

Quality Of Immigrants That Are Needed For The British Dominions

A Giant Of Earlier Days

Monster Animals Roamed Plains of Western Canada Before Beginning Of History

It has been established beyond any reasonable controversy that long-ago, ages estimated in many millions of years and before, the earth's surface in consequence of internal convulsions was crumpled up into what are now the Rocky Mountains, and roamed, in large numbers, over tropical overlands in the region now called Canada the "Giant of Earlier Days." That Canada was then an essentially tropical region is proven, according to geologists, by the character of the animals whose fossilized remains are being unearthed, and by the rich tropical life disclosed in leaf impressions and coal deposits showing characteristically tropical forms of vegetation.

Just why the varied form of animal existence in prehistoric times should have inclined to the more grotesquely half-rhinal types is a question for which we do not yet have a satisfactory explanation. Certain it is that the duck-billed dinosaur, if it existed today on the plains of Central or Western Canada, would stand unchallenged as the ungainly monster that ever staggered in the imagination of the schoolboy, and its allegiance to the British Empire. The duck-billed dinosaur appears to have been about as graceful in appearance as the modern hippopotamus would be if endowed with the neck of a giraffe as a sort of aerial superstructure.

It is just as well that Noah was not obliged to furnish accommodations for the spoonbilled dinosaur and his ungainly contemporaries. His problem otherwise would have been seriously complicated. Keeping a pair of duck-billed dinosaurs purring contentment for 40 consecutive days and nights might have seriously interfered with the old gentleman's commissary department. —Los Angeles Express.

England's Loss Of Tillage

Reduced In Last Twelve Months By 309,000 Acres

The area under crops or grass this year in England and Wales, as shown by the returns now published in the 1920-21 year, is less than last year's not a big drop, when allowance is made for the bad season of 1921, the fall in the prices of crops and stock, and other tendencies unfavorable to the farmer. The arable area, however, has in the twelve months been reduced by 309,000 acres, and it would only need an equal reduction next year to wipe off the whole of what is left of the country's increased arable cultivation since 1914. "We are travelling backward at something like a mammoth pace," says the pre-war war or neglect of the national soil. That state of things, whose perils were made startlingly plain to us under war conditions, and to which every facile writer then told us "we could never" consciously return, is now being confronted with equanimity by the public as the goal of our agricultural evolution.—London Daily Chronicle.

Tablets of 2100 B.C. Agrees In Part With Bible Account

Adam was driven from the Garden of Eden because he attempted to rival the gods and not because Eve tempted him, according to a Babylonian version deciphered from tablets of 2100 B.C. by Dr. Howard Chiera, professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania.

The tablets agreeing with the account of the fall of man in Genesis, differ from that which the Bible tells us of immortality as the cause, were taken from the library of Nippur.

As translated by Chiera they record a dialogue between a Babylonian god and man. They were written about 1,000 years before Genesis and show that the god drove man from the garden in self-defence, not as punishment. No word is said of the serpent here, but Dr. Chiera states that the Babylonians considered him as a friend of man.

The doctor has started work on series of other tablets which he also says deals with mythology.

Examination of The Figures

Presenting the density of the population in various countries, while revealing the advantage of a more equable distribution, also reveals that the countries at the head of the list are by no means those that complain of the consequent pressure. China is usually quoted as having the most congested population, but it really is not in that position. The distinction belongs to Belgium, with 666.3 inhabitants to the square mile, yet no one hears Belgium complaining that it must ship some of its overflow to other lands. Neither is anything of that kind heard from Holland, second only to Belgium as the most densely settled country with 517 to the square mile. Third is Great Britain, with 239 to the square mile, this, however, being rather misleading. Siam and Wales, together, in 1911, had 118 persons to the square mile, and England alone, according to the census of last year, has now over 700 to the square mile, more even than Belgium. Japan is much more densely populated than China, with its 383 to the square mile, against the 99.9 of China. Australia is the least populated country in the world with less than two persons to the square mile. Its 6,548,000 inhabitants living largely along the eastern and southern coasts. Canada has 2.4 inhabitants to the square mile, chiefly along the southern belt adjacent to the United States, which has only 35 persons to the square mile.

Canada, Australia and the United States can all stand for a considerable increase of population, but the British Dominions only want immigrants who will go on the land, or in the case of women, who will accept domestic service. Their capacity to absorb immigrants who want work in the popular centres or in manufacturing industries is limited, and they are both promoting schemes to attract the class of immigrants they can handle. The United States has passed a somewhat arbitrary law limiting the quota of immigrants from each nation, a role that is working considerable hardship in many cases, besides restricting materially the entry of unskilled laborers. This latter phase of the immigration law is creating much apprehension among the employers of this class of labor, and among economic students and writers. They point out that native-born Americans, even those whose parents were originally immigrants from the countries whence the unskilled workers come, do not expect to take up competition against labor such as is needed in the steel industry, in the mines and on the railroads. Lack of immigrants and consequent curtailment of supply of unskilled workers, it is argued, will raise the general level of industrial costs at the expense of United States consumers and exporters.

How Typewriter Keyboard Was Planned Season Keys Were Not Set In Alphabetical Order It is a question of speed in working. Certain letters and combinations of letters are used more frequently than others; and these are arranged in the most convenient places on the middle of the keyboard. Around the edges are the letters and characters which are used less frequently. The typist who types correctly uses all his (or her) fingers. It is almost impossible to get up speed without doing this. Certain letters are allotted to each finger, and, when the keyboard was planned, care had to be taken to see that the strongest fingers had charge of the letters most frequently used. Finally—a very important point—the keyboard had to be arranged so that there was no danger of "collisions" between the type-bars as they were constantly rising and dropping.

NEW MOTOR ROAD

ACROSS THE ROCKIES

Blair, Alta. — The Vermilion-Windermere section of the new motor highway from Calgary is now nearing completion. Engineers of the Canadian National Parks Branch announce that this road, which forms the back link in the through highway from Calgary to California, will be ready for traffic early next summer.

As soon as it is open, a circle tour of 6,000 miles, touching three national parks in Canada and seven in the United States will be completed. Motorists in both Canada and the United States are eagerly awaiting the opening of the road and work is being rushed to have everything in readiness for July.

A few years ago the province of Alberta built the section from Calgary to the eastern boundary of the Banff National Park and the Dominion Government carried on the road from that point on to the Vermilion Summit on the interprovincial divide.

The province of British Columbia has agreed to construct the remaining section, from the Vermilion Summit to a point in the Columbia valley where connection has been made with the existing road from Golden, but owing to the outbreak of the war and financial and labor difficulties, it found itself unable to carry on the work.

In 1919 the Dominion Government agreed to undertake this section and the date for completion was set for 1924. The road is therefore being opened a good year in advance of the date agreed upon. This has been made possible by the energy of the park's engineers and the fact that operations were continued by order of the government throughout the entire year.

Construction of the Vermilion-Windermere section presented many difficulties not only on account of the mountainous character of the country, but owing to the long distance from the coast. From the coast of the Rockies, which the road crosses via the Vermilion pass, the road descends to the above mentioned divide of the Rocky Mountains Range and then again ascends to cross the Snake valley and through the winding Snake Canyon to the Co. him.

Forty miles of the road had to be cut through virgin timber, numerous bridges had to be constructed and the road finally carved through the huge walls of the Snake Canyon.

The railroads, Canadian, Alberta, and Portland, B. C., were seventy-five miles apart. This meant that supplies for the central position had to be transported by train or wagon, a distance of over 30 miles. The heavy snowfall in this district added considerably to the difficulty in the winter months.

During the winter of 1920-21 the snow sometimes lay as deep as four or five feet on the ground and it often took days for the supply trains to reach the end of the road. About 60 miles of the road were kept open during the past two winters.

Every mile of the new highway has been laid out so as to afford the motorist the finest views of the incomparable scenery as well as the most grades. The engine is practically virgin country and those who have gone over it declare it embraces some of the most magnificent scenery in the Rockies. The route is one that has been followed in the past by none but a few intrepid explorers, chief of whom was Sir James Hector, geologist with the Palliser Expedition, who ascended the Vermilion on the famous journey which later resulted in his fortunate discovery of the Kitchikan Pass. The region is in fact so new that very few of the peaks bear names and fewer yet have been ascended. A new world rich in virgin attractions is therefore opened both to the mountaineer and the motorist. The district abounds naturally in big game which is increasing rapidly and becoming very tame under the sanctuary conditions prevailing in the national park. Wild goat, elk, moose, deer and even bear will all come within sight of the passing motor and a timely sharp wheel will dispense the sight of a stag.

INTERESTING FACTS

ABOUT THE HAIR

The number of hairs on the average person's head is about 100,000. Some have more—some considerably less. Usually hair grows from five to eight inches in a year.

Hair has been found unchanged on Egyptian mummies thousands of years old.

Hair frequently grows on persons after death and sometimes for years after, particularly on those who rest up while on earth.

Light or blond hair is finer than dark hair, hence there is more of it to the square inch.

The number of hairs on the average eyebrows is about 600.

Hair grows faster in summer than in winter.

Each hair on the head usually lives only about four years.

There is usually about 420 hairs in the eyelashes.

The longest hair on record is that of an Indian youth—ten feet long. Dark hair prevails in France.

EDITORIAL RAMBLINGS

The editor sat in his office next, whence all but he had fled; and he stated that every last dead hen was in his garage, stage dead. His mind then wandered far away to the time when he should die, and his legal assistant could go according to the sky; when he'd roam the fields of paradise and sail over jasper seas, and all things glorious would combine in his every sense to please. He thought how then he'd look across the great gold, dark and dense, that'll swim between his happy soul and those who scolded here; and when for water they would call, and in among they would open, he'd shout to them "Just quench your thirst with the DAIRY that's on your paper!"—Ed.

RECORDED TIME FOR

CHALLENGING RUNNERS

The Canadian Forestry Association's National Essay Competition, which was to close on November 15th, has been extended until December 1st in order to allow the school children of Alberta plenty of time to prepare their essays for the prizes. Three money prizes are awarded for each province for the most intelligent essays received, and judgment will be on the basis not of the quantity of information a child may take from text books, but according to the diligence and earnestness of the juvenile competition.

The greatest interest has been stirred up by this contest in all parts of Canada and thousands of children's manuscripts are reaching the office of the Canadian Forestry Association at Ottawa. Copies of the competition have been mailed to all the schools in Alberta.

KING JAMES' BIBLE
BARRIED IN SCHOOL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 5.—The King James version of the Bible is barred from the public school of California.

By a decision of the State Court of Appeals it has been held a "sectarian book," and under California laws sectarian publications can not be used in public schools.

The decision was made in a case from Fresno county where suit was brought to prevent payment of a bill for twelve copies of the King James version which a school district had purchased.

In the lower court it was held that the Bible was universal and not sectarian, and the bill was ordered paid.

On appeal the appellate court declared that it was shown that the King James version is peculiar to the Protestant churches and hence is sectarian.

On these grounds the school district was forbidden to complete the purchase.

DRUGGISTS RELIEVED OF LIQUOR

Druggists in the four cities of Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, are to be relieved shortly of the responsibility of the sale of alcoholic stimulants, according to an announcement by Attorney-General Broinville. The sale of liquor in these cities will henceforth be conducted solely by government vendors. This will necessitate the appointment of vendors in Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. In towns and outlying points, druggists will continue to dispense liquor on prescriptions, but the quantities will be reduced to six ounces in bottles sealed by the government.

OPENING OF HOUSE POSTPONED

The opening of the legislature, which was billed to take place on December 7, will not now be held until January 23, owing to the fact that Premier Greenfield will be engaged in the conference on natural resources at Ottawa for the last two weeks in November, and that the government is not quite ready with its program for the session. The Premier is anxious to go into the session fully prepared to proceed with legislation. The date of January 23 is ten days earlier than the date of opening last spring.

(Frank Paper, April, 1908)

Always when it is proposed to build a new railroad through the mountains a lot of arduous labor falls to the lot of someone in finding the route which to the greatest extent possible combines shortness and easy gradients. Some of these experiences were had by Walter Gardner, who travelled hundreds of miles in the Livingstons above the Gap in the interests of the Northwestern Coal Company who have immense coal properties at various points along that mountain range. Mr. Gardner's labors resulted in the discovery of an entirely new pass through the main range.

A Montreal dispatch states that Hon. Mr. Cushing, minister of public works, has been successful in his negotiations for the purchase of the Bell telephone system in this province and that the deal has been closed for the sum of $675,000.

The first robin of spring made its appearance on Monday morning. Owing to stormy weather it was obliged to return south.

Murder most foul was committed in Frank in the early hours of Sunday, April the 12th, when Constable G. E. Willmetts, of the Royal North West Mounted Police, was done to death while on patrol duty in connection with an effort to ferret out petty burglaries of recent occurrence. The instrument of death employed was a shotgun. Constable Willmetts was about twenty-four years of age and single and a native of Derbyshire, England.

DRY OFFICERS' DEATH TOLL BIG

One hundred and twenty-five prohibition enforcement agents have been killed and 250 wounded in their efforts to enforce the Volstead Act, according to the American Ince, the official organ of the anti-alcohol league, says the New York World.

Describing this as a "miniature civil war," Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, general counsel of the association against the prohibition amendments made public figures obtained in 50 American cities, showing arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct were 182,219 in 1920 and 343,665 in 1921, the second year of prohibition, showing an increase of 36.21 per cent.

In the same period arrests of intoxicated motorists increased from 1588 to 3825, or 62.25 per cent; arrests for drug addiction and peddling from 4829 to 8262, an increase of 68.68 per cent. Arrests for all causes increased from 1,233,904 to 1,464,296, or 18.67 per cent and the police expenses of 43 cities increased from $30,830,246.37 to $30,018,129.89, or 11.2 per cent.

FREE LENDING LIBRARY

The Women's Extension Service of the department of agriculture maintains a free lending library and clipping bureau, covering a wide range of subjects, for the use of the citizens of Alberta. To the rural population, especially, this is of much practical value. Requests to the department for material range from how to make hats, pickles, rag rugs or iceless refrigerators, to debates on "Which Makes the Best Husband—An Industrial Crank or a Good-natured Slouch?" The study of labor-saving devices for the home, nutrition, child welfare, home nursing, all the varied branches of home economics, biographies, etc., has, of late, occupied a prominent portion of the year's program for the rural women's organizations. For the preparation of these study periods, or addresses, the Women's Extension Service is largely drawn upon, to supply the necessary material. The clippings or books are loaned for a period of two weeks.

Miles Tilly, lecturer for the women's extension branch, is now on a "itinerary of lectures through the rural districts, giving instruction in dressmaking.

Constable Holmden, formerly of Macleod, has arrived to take the place of the late Constable Willmetts in the Frank R.N.W.M.P. barracks.

According to the year's report of Customs Officer A. C. Beach, goods to the value of $50,000 passed through the customs, the revenue being in the neighborhood of $15,000.

On Wednesday, April the 26th, the anniversary of the Frank Slide will be celebrated in the churches. At the Catholic church, a solemn mass of requiem will be celebrated for the victims of the slide, Rev. Father Lajot officiating.

C. V. McDonald, for some time in charge of the Ashdown store, left during the week for Calgary and is succeeded by M. G. Rhynas.

A news item in the Spokesman Review states that "D. C. Corbin" will shortly begin the construction of the coal road from McGillivray to the Flathead.

The Pass will receive a visit in the near future from the heads of the Alberta government. The party will include Premier Rutherford; Minister of Public Works, W. B. Cushing, and Attorney-General C. W. Cross. They will be piloted by our local member, J. P. Macrellus.

Wonders Of Surgery

Re-Starting a Heart That Has Stopped Beating

One of the latest wonders of surgery is the stopping of the heart of a human being and starting it again.

And yet it is not as new as it sounds, for fifty years ago a strange man lived who had the power to stop his heart at will and set it beating again when he chose.

He used to give demonstrations of his powers. But he repeated the trick once too often.

Nowadays, however, he need not have died. For if a surgeon had been handy his heart would have been massaged and set going again—as happened in London a short time ago when a patient had been "dead" for many minutes, says a London heart specialist.

Heart massage is neither a very wonderful nor yet a very difficult operation. It is merely common sense added to a little special knowledge. The idea is that, as the heart is a self-pumping pump for the blood, if it stops, the pumping work can be done by hand till it starts again.

The surgeon takes the heart of the "dead" man in his hand and gently squeezes it so many times a minute thus keeping up the circulation. Very soon, as a rule, the organ begins to revive and beat again.

People, in fact, can "die" and be brought back to life—a very strange and wonderful discovery.

Naturally this applies only to accidental deaths to cases of heart stoppage following frights, or anaesthetics, or injuries.

In cases of heart disease, where exhaustion of the organ has occurred, massage is useless. The "main spring," as it were, has broken.

Operations on the heart to remove bullets were almost commonplace during the last year of the war. Both French and English surgeons performed many of them, and it is calculated that several hundred lives were saved in this way.

Not only so, but there are today many men alive and well who have bullets or pieces of shell embedded in their hearts. The writer knows well, and has frequently examined, a patient of this kind, who experiences no inconvenience of any sort.

In fact, our hearts are not nearly so feeble or delicate as they are supposed to be. Like every other organ in our wonderful bodies they have a big reserve of strength.

Where Nature Is Lavish

Natives of Orinoco River Valley Can Take Life Easy

Nature is lavish to the natives of the Orinoco River Valley. The forest contains wild honey in abundance, as well as many excellent fruits and nuts; the rivers and lagoons are rich with fish, which support the vast bird life of the country as well as supply excellent food for the natives. Turtles and alligators are both prolific; the former are especially valuable for food and for their fat, which are used both for cooking and illuminating purposes. The latter are valuable for their skins as well as their oil, which is used for a lubricant. Game of all kinds abound in the forests and about the lagoons.

Cotton grows well. An excellent tobacco, formerly in considerable demand for export to Germany, is produced in the Upper Orinoco and Apuro Valleys, but cultivation might be much more widespread, writes United States Consul H. L. Baker, from Trinidad.

Small wild pigs run at large over considerable sections and furnish excellent food. Coffee is produced on only a few estates, and there is a large use of sugar, but like coffee, this is brought down from the northern sections of Venezuela. The natives cultivate but a very insignificant portion of available land, and that in a most primitive way, chiefly for Indian corn and cassava.

Education in Evolution

The Minnesota Education Association is preparing a real fight to prevent elimination of teaching of evolution in public schools. At a meeting of the biology division of the association, Dr. Charles F. Sigerson, head of the animal biology department of the University of Minnesota, declared, "No respectable educational institution can limit or restrict the teaching of evolution."

Politeness is one of the first results of education. But the funny thing is that many people never get educated because they confine their studies to those things which they think will help them to "make money easy." In that spirit, one can pursue elusive goals of learning for a thousand years and become less and less educated as time goes on—Windsor Border Cities Star.

Fast Air Trip to Europe

Official of U.S. Army Predicts That Trip Will Soon Be Made in a Day

"It soon will be possible for a business man in New York to leave at six o'clock in the morning, arrive in London or other European cities in time for lunch, transact business there and return before dark," declared Brigadier-General William Mitchell, Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service and holder of the world's record for speed.

General Mitchell predicted that within a comparatively short time a flying machine will be developed which will hurtle through space at the terrific speed of 500 miles an hour, capable of carrying half a dozen passengers and their baggage.

Only one barrier now rests between this achievement and its success and that is, the inability to perfect a device which supply sufficient oxygen to pilot and passengers.

"The extreme speed can only be made at a height where the atmosphere does not carry moisture," this altitude is approximately 55,000 feet. We have carried out experiments showing that a flying machine can dash through the atmosphere at this height much faster than at the lower levels. The air is much finer and offers less resistance to the aircraft than, say, at 5,000 feet.

"The barrier which the army engineers are now trying to overcome is that of supplying air to the passengers and pilots. At this high altitude, oxygen must be supplied to both human beings and the engine."

"We have constructed a plane at Washington with an inclined cabin, which houses the passengers and motor. A large oxygen tank supplies the air. We have made several tests with this plane, but we are not ready to give out the results of our experiments. The plane has a variable pitch propeller, which allows the pilot to make the necessary adjustments to reach high altitudes and to create sufficient power to travel fast."

Alberta Butter Grading Well

Quality of Cream Improved by Making Direct Shipments Compulsory

Justification of the legislation passed at the last session of the Alberta Legislature in eliminating cream buying stations and making direct shipments compulsory, has been found in the general improvement in the quality of cream being shipped and the greater amount of Alberta butter that grades up to "specials" and "firsts," states Hon. George Hoadley.

In a report from the dairy commissioner, Chris. Marker, covering the grading of cream and butter for the five summer months this year, he shows that the provisional cream grades, classified at 25,650 pounds of cream containing 7,955,503 pounds of butter fat, or an average of 25.6 per cent. of butter fat.

Of this quantity, 29 per cent. of butter fat was contained in "special" grade cream, 35.2 per cent. in first grade cream; 30.1 per cent. in second grade cream; 1 per cent. in off grade, and 1.6 per cent. in table grade cream. From these figures it will be seen that slightly less than one-third of the cream was graded higher than "firsts."

About 60 per cent. of the total creamery butter produced in the province was graded at Edmonton and Calgary, and a comparative statement as to the better grade this year is made from these two stations.

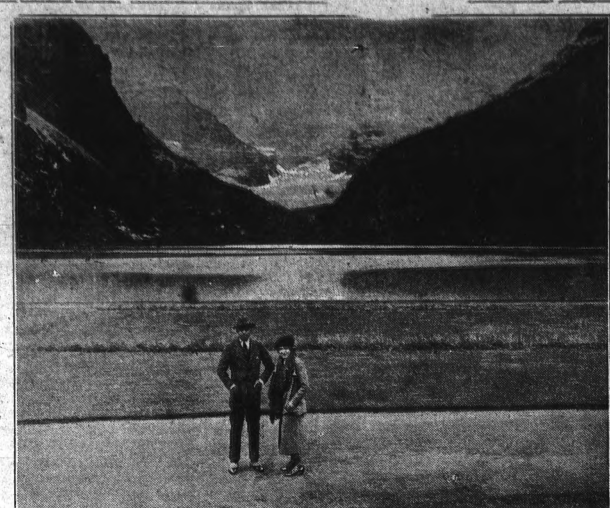

There were 5,102,195 pounds graded during the same period this year, an increase in manufacture of nearly 400,000 pounds. Of this butter, "specials" increased from 8.3 per cent. to 25.5 per cent.; first grade flavor score 49, increased from 50 per cent. to 34.8 per cent.; first grade off score 39, decreased from 34.9 per cent. to 18.8 per cent. this year; second grade flavor score 38, decreased from 19.5 per cent. to 14 per cent.; second grade flavor score 37, went off from 6.5 per cent. to 4.4 per cent. Off grade was 1 per cent. last year and 1.5 per cent. this year.

Asbestos Production

Now Ranks First Among Quebec Minerals in Point of Value

An asbestos production in excess of $100,000,000 will be attained in the Thetford region in Quebec. The industry has grown gradually since its exceedingly small beginning in 1878, until it now ranks first among Quebec minerals in point of value, and actively exceeds all other mineral production of that province. Asbestos is to Quebec what nickel is to Ontario. Canada has a virtual monopoly of both, and the manufacture of raw material into semi-finished or finished product is of comparatively recent date.

Early next year will be celebrated the centenary of the first performance in public, at Corbett Garden, Upper House, of the wonderful song, "Home, Sweet Home."

Lake Louise, the jade-green gem of the Canadian Rockies made an irresistible appeal to Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks when they visited that famous spot recently. They had never seen anything like it, they said, even though they had visited most of the beauty spots of this continent and many in other parts of the world. In this opinion they agreed with several hundred much travelled United States railway men who were there a day or two before the "movie stars" arrived. From all parts of the continent they came—they saw, and were conquered. "Nothing like it in America," they said.

Southern Alberta

Farmers Not Leaving

Refutation of a statement appearing in a recent issue of a Toronto paper to the effect that there was a wholesale exodus of farmers from Southern Alberta, is given by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta.

The portion of the article to which Mr. Hoadley's statement has reference reads as follows: "The removal of settlers from arid farms to new homesteads will entail many sad consequences. Villages and towns may be deserted, schools left to ruin, roads run over with weeds, and farm houses left untenanted, but eventually the country will prosper because of this. There is no use whatever keeping farmers on land, out of which they cannot make a living."

"That there is any wholesale exodus from the portion of the province referred to, is, to say the least, a gross exaggeration," declared Mr. Hoadley. "The most complete refutation of this statement is found in the fact, according to the figures of the 1921 census, there are 83,421 farmers in the whole province of Alberta, of which number 18,491 are situated in the area under consideration. Of the 18,491 only 114 have applied for removal, to other localities."

Newspapers and Rumors Press Corrects Far Greater Errors Than It Makes

Newspapers are sometimes criticized for inaccuracy, and it would be absurd to claim for them freedom from error. It is not always recognized that they correct far more erroneous reports than they make mistakes of that kind. Most reporters have had the experience of investigating sensational stories which turned out to have little or no basis in fact. Without such investigation these stories might spread uncontradicted, gathering more details as they passed from one to another like the classic tale of the man who was said to have swallowed three black crows, the fact being that some one had swallowed something black. If in trying to discover and publish the facts the newspaper makes some trifling error, there may be an outcry about the inaccuracy of the Press, with no recognition of the far greater error that was corrected—Toronto Globe.

Wheat in the Yukon

The area of production is being pushed into what has always been referred to as the "hardest north." Canada's cereal producing area has been extended to the Yukon. Flour made from Yukon grown wheat is on sale in Dawson today. James Parr, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm near Dawson, this season raised a fine crop of wheat, which he milled into high grade whole wheat flour.

Girl Is Efficient Deep Sea Diver

English Girl Has Successfully Invaded This Dangerous Calling

The profession of deep sea diving, which anyone would classify as a calling particularly fitted for men, has been successfully invaded by a woman. Margaret Naylor, an English girl, is acclaimed as one of the most efficient and daring wearers of the helmet in British waters.

She has gained a wide reputation during the last two years, and more recently for her efforts in the recovery of treasure from the sunken Spanish galleon lying in ten fathoms of water near the shore of Mull, an island off Scotland. There, in the cozy little harbor of Tobermory, and less than a hundred yards from the beach lies one of the greatest treasure ships of the many vessels launched by the ambitious Philip in 1588, for his attempted conquest of England.

So certain was this monarch that he would add the British Isles to his already large domains, that he actually sent on his fabled regalia in advance. It is believed today that the richly bejeweled crown is lying somewhere in the sixty feet of water among the wreckage of the Admirante de Florencia, which Miss Naylor has succeeded in negotiating.

Although the task presents many problems which would cause anxiety to diversify the stronger sex, Miss Naylor shows no fear. She has had one or two narrow escapes from death in the course of her experience, without being in any way deterred from tackling the risky business again.

Miss Naylor recently made a trip to the southern coast of England and obtained some excellent specimens of undersea plant life. She nearly lost her life when her feet became entangled in a ladder which she was using, and only her presence of mind enabled her to free herself to be hauled safely to the top.

How He Managed It

Shortly after being made a peer Lord Magheramorne, who was better known as Sir James McGarel Hogg, went to dine at the house of an old friend, where he announced himself to James as "Lord Magheramorne."

"What?" said the startled domestic. "Lord Magheramorne," said he, with emphasis.

James shook his head. He declared of attempting to render the smooth gutturals. What was he to do? The visitor was advancing to the drawing-room.

James hesitated a moment, then he bravely uttered the name and proclaimed, "The late Sir James Hogg!"

Manitoba Honey Yield

Bee-keeping in Manitoba has developed very quickly since its inception two years ago and this year there are approximately 1,000 bee-keepers in the province, according to T. Ford, provincial apiarist. If the present development continues, the number occupied in the industry is expected to be doubled next year. Two million pounds of honey have been produced here yet, and the industry will bring into the province a revenue of $400,000.

Scavengers were originally officials who collected sewage, a tax in many English towns upon all goods exposed for sale within their boundaries.

Clothes and Health

Much Sickness Is Caused By Wrong Kind of Clothing

When some patients come to me suffering from headache, throat trouble, or nervous breakdown, I don't order them medicine, I merely order a change of clothing.

An unwise choice of clothes—a determination to be in the fashion, or perhaps—is the cause of much sickness today.

People wear too little or too much; they wear the wrong garments, or the wrong sizes of the right garments.

Imitation silk stockings frequently cause blood poisoning. Colored stockings, too, can cause a lot of foot trouble difficult to cure. This is due to the dye used in the making of the shoddy stuff.

Straw hats of the cheap variety may injure the scalp, and the large hats for women, now jamming into fashion in place of the sensible small toques, are causing many headaches. Common-sense clothes should be like the sailor's—loose and comfortable.

This, in a man, doesn't necessarily entail baggy trousers, bulky sleeves and gaping waist-coat.

If your tailor gives you a perfect, easy fit, you won't need to worry. But when you have to sit down carefully lest you spoil a "crease," or cannot freely move your arms or neck, then you're badly dressed, however expensive your suit may have been.

Your hat ought to fit as a glove fits—it shouldn't be screwed down too tight on your head. Your collar should on no account be tight, and don't pad yourself with underclothing as if you were a punching machine.

Another thing to remember is, never wear heavy boots unless you are out for a walking tour.

When lacing your boots, remember that your blood needs to circulate in your feet. Tight boot-lacing is very harmful.—By a Physician.

Fighting Drought

Chemical Science Coming to the Aid of Agriculture in Britain

Chemical science in Britain is fighting the danger of drought, and it is thought that the day may soon come when a prolonged drought will have no terrors for the farmer. This is the hope held out by Mr. Arnold R. Tankard, public analyst and bacteriologist at Hull. British agricultural chemists, he says, are devoting their attention to the discovery of means to increase the moisture-retaining properties of the soil, in order to enable crops to withstand prolonged drought without serious injury. A great deal in this direction has already been accomplished.

Willie's Reply

A doctor who was superintendent of the Sunday school in a small village asked one of the boys this question: "Willie, will you tell me what we must do in order to get to Heaven?"

Said Willie: "We must die."

"Very true," replied the doctor, "but tell me what we must do before we die."

"We must get sick," said Willie, "and send for you."—Kenebec Journal.

Electricity vs. Coal

Electricity May Become Important Rival of Coal in Producing Steam

Electricity is becoming an important rival of coal as a producer of steam.

At present the use of electrical apparatus for generating steam is confined to locations where there is an overabundance of electric power, but an article in the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, by Horace Drever, an engineer of Philadelphia, indicates what may be expected of the future.

The recent statement of Thomas A. Edison that eventually humanity will be relieved of the necessity to perform labor is made easy to believe by letting the imagination play on some of the facts presented by Mr. Drever.

Steam is usually thought of as necessary only for generating power, driving engines. However, it is more important in many plants for other purposes. In paper mills, for instance, much steam is required for cooking and bringing about chemical reactions. In the most efficient nitrogen fixation plants, a great deal of steam is essential to the chemical process of making nitrogen from the air unite with other elements so that it can be used as fertilizer.

"To compete with coal at $10 per ton on a basis of fuel cost only," Mr. Drever writes, "electric power would have to be as cheap as two mills per kilowatt hour. The element of fuel cost, is not the only one entering into the problem, however. Labor, interest on investment and fixed charges generally will be much larger for the coal plant than for the electric generator, and, in fact, aside from power cost, every item will be greater for coal plants than for the electric generator. One man can easily do all the work connected with the latter, except major repairs, for units totalling as much as 5,000 boiler horsepower, and where the load is fairly constant, one attendant can operate a plant twice this size.

The author gives comparative figures on a coal-fired steam plant such as is required at a large paper mill, and an electric generator, showing that 11 men would be required in the coal plant, to 1 man for the electric generator. The cost of building and operating the coal plant, of eight 400-horsepower boilers would be annually $685,565.25, while the electric generator could be operated at a cost of $657,876, a saving of $27,489.25 every year.

It is obvious that in the electric steam generator plant, fuel transportation, storage and handling, ashes, smoke and dirt would all be eliminated.

Forests and Water Supply

Destruction of Forests Spells Ruin of Water Supply

When by reckless tree-cutting the forest cover is removed from hills and mountains, nothing is left to hold the rain—no layer of living roots, mosses, or other vegetable growths which absorb and retain the moisture. Thereafter, in consequence, the rainfall, runs off in torrents, and the streams to which it should afford a regulated supply throughout the year are flooded with water and dried up in summer. Incidentally, the soil is washed away and the hill-sides, once beautiful with fresh-green verdure, become so much barren desert.

In this way the water supply of certain areas of country has been practically destroyed. The forests of the hills and mountains are natural storage reservoirs. Destruction of these reservoirs means ruin to the farmers in the valleys and on the prairies.

She Knew The Greeting

Desiring to buy a camera, the pretty girl inspected the stock of a local shopkeeper.

"Is this a good one?" she asked, as she picked up a machine. "What is it called?"

"That's the Belvedere," said the shopkeeper, smiling.

There was a chilly silence. Then the girl drew herself erect, fixed him with an icy stare, and asked again: "Er—and can you recommend the Belvis?"—London Tit-Bits.

Speaking Affirmatively

The late cartoonist shook his portrait in the photographer's face. "Do I look like this picture? The thing's an outrage. Why, you've given me an awful sight and the look of a prize fighter. Now, answer me, has the photographer done it. Do you call that a good likeness?"

The photographer scanned the print, then looked at the customer.

"The answer," he said, "is in the negative."

"EVERYGIRL" REAL LIVELY COMEDY

(Vancouver Sun)

Refined humor, sprightly daintiness, abundant melody—always in handsome settings—marked the opening performance of Tom McKnight's musical revue, "Everygirl," at the Avenue Theatre last evening. This pleasing musical comedy is made up of equal parts of comedy, melody, dancing and pulchritude; is sweetened with off-recurring lyrical beauty and seasoned with much rib-tickling drollery; and the whole is kept well-stirred by its action and served very much to the taste of the audience.

Perhaps the features of this entertaining pot-pourri that call for most praise are the youth and charm of the chorus, the colorful richness of the costumes and scenery, the poise and finish of the principals, the cockney incongruities Pat Rafferty and above all, the total absence of anything untoward. It was a show to which a daughter might bring her own father, if you know what I mean.

In fact, the action was for more allegro than allegory, and that is a good thing in revues. In the large and talented company, Mayme Bell and Pauline Harvey deserve special mention for their singing and acting ability; while the spontaneous comedy of the diminutive Pat Rafferty, master of "fall" styles, must be acknowledged the "life" and "soul" of the offering.

It is a good, clean entertainment.

INDISPENSABLE FOR HOME-MAKERS

It is not simply because it gives all the news and the latest information that The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is so highly valued throughout the Dominion. The housewives and home-makers are more carefully and thoughtfully considered in it than in any other similar publication, young people and children have pages especially provided for them, and there is provision made for all tastes and circumstances. Music, photography, natural history, biography, literature, travel, mineralogy, wireless (radio) telegraphy, astronomy, philately, pedagogy, all find place in it. Many a young person has had the first impulse towards a life's success come from some or other of these departments, which chance to strike light in his mind and changed a whole course of life. You can never tell of what chance in life those are depriving their young people who have not as yet become subscribers to The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. The subscription price is only $2.00 per year. It is the great investment of the times.

BOB EDWARDS IS DEAD

Bob Edwards, probably the most prominent editor, has gone above to take his place among the good editors who are employed placing and replacing the little stars. Bob died at his home in Calgary on Tuesday night, following but a few months of ill health. He leaves a wife.

Bob Edwards was the publisher of The Calgary Eye Opener for a number of years, previous to which he issued his views from Fort Arthur, Ontario, and High River, Alberta.

A large crowd is expected at the golf dance here on Friday night.

An auction sale was held at the ranch of Kerr Johnson, of North Fork, on Monday.

James Gilmore and family have moved to the house formerly occupied by Mr. London and family.

Lots of farmers are busy these days hauling wheat to market. The roads are in excellent condition and the weather ideal.

We are glad to report that Miss Marjorie Smith, who is in Leithbridge undergoing surgical treatment, is improving satisfactorily.

Mr. Cowan, who has been living in the Cleared house for some weeks, has moved his family to the Coghill house, this property being purchased by the Pacific Elevator Company for his accommodation.

Philip Fortier and family have recently moved to Blairmore. We have word that their son Emiel has sailed from San Francisco to China, this being his first trip to the Orient. He joined the navy some months ago.

The whist drive held last Wednesday evening was very successful. The first prizes were won by Miss Bernice Anderson and K. B. Harrison, being a set of silver teaspoons and a fountain pen, while the booty prizes were awarded to Peggy McEwen and Harry Hannan. The supper was supplied by Mrs. B. O. Morrow and Mrs. Robert Littlejohn.

The Ladies Aid of Bellevue Methodist church will hold a Sale of Work in the basement of the new church on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, December 2nd. There will be sale of work, home cooking, etc. Tea will also be served.

Bar B Ranch,
December 4th, 19—

I am homesick, homesick, HOME SICK, and only my pride, together with a feeling of obligation towards Mrs. Bingham, keep me from telegraphing for a berth on the next boat. I will leave Carbon City tomorrow I could be home in time for Christmas. That wretched scurvy fever seems to have turned up all my strength of mind, and it is only by filling every moment with employment that I am able to keep from giving in to my loneliness. The home letters are full of Christmas plans, and it is almost more than I can bear. Nothing coaxes me to come home, and I can read between the lines that they all had many an anxious hour when I was ill. But I will not go; there is really no reason, beyond that of self-indulgence, why I should go, and I do not approve of self-indulgence.

Mrs. Bingham still watches over me professionally, and is not growing strong as quickly as she would like, so she insists upon giving me a tonic. According to the wrapper on the bottle, the tonic is "the most complete of the blood of beef." At first I thought that it consisted principally of a clever combination of bad tastes, but by again referring to the label I found that it contained the following unpronounceable ingredients: along with several more familiar ones: hemoglobin, seralubum, sodium chloride, and phosphoric anhydride. All cattle have that stuff flowing in their veins. It is no wonder that even the mild dairy-cow sometimes kicks the milking-pail over!

We have been to the Agency, to Forest Park, and to the Carroll place within the last month, and we have had a great deal of company here; but I do not care for anything—just want to go home. The Carrolls have had a stroke of luck; while I was ill a bachelor brother of Mr. Carroll's died (very conveniently for them) and left them enough money to keep them in comfort at home. Mr. Carroll was fairly running over with happiness when she came to say good-bye to us. They sail from New York this week.

I have written forty letters since last Sunday and still have a great deal to be written to-day. My Christmas shopping was conspicuous by its absence this year. I sent each of the home-folk a pair of beaded slipper-socks made by Ellen Prince of Wales, and I sent Mary the money to buy presents in Winnipeg for my Canadian friends. Mary loves to shop even for someone else. I have not been to Carbon City since I was ill, and I did not like to trouble Mrs. Bingham to get anything for me when she went into town—I do not suppose I should have been able to get what I wanted in so small a place anyway.

Mr. Livingston has been away for nearly two weeks. He is going to attend the marriage of his eldest brother, the one who manages the farm. We expect him back to-morrow or the next day.

Bar B Ranch,

December 27, 19—

I greatly fear that my diary, like many other diaries, is about to become a thing of this and starts. Either I am too busy to write, or I have nothing to write about. However, my book is almost full. I certainly found enough to write about when everything was new and strange, and no doubt I shall find it interesting reading when I am a bearded and bearded old lady.

I am not nearly so homesick as I was a few weeks ago, although I still wake in the morning with a very vivid realization of the size of the earth. If I invested in a nice little globe, say nine inches in diameter, would Wilmington seem any closer to the Bar B, I wonder? (I wish the purists who object to the use of "wonder" in this connection would provide an unoffending substitute.) But before I have rubbed the sleep out of my eyes a voice comes from the other side of

WITH THE ABYSSINIAN
GIRL BY
J. G. GRIFFIN

There's a Lot of Laughter at The End-of-the-Earth About Kiwi.

A SHORT while ago Stella was telling to her four Brownies and they were particularly interested in her account of the Moa bird.

It is a bird of the long, long ago, and for over five hundred years there had been no Moa, the Fairy explained to her Brownies; that Moa eggs and skeletons have been found deeply imbedded under the soil, and that is how people learned about them and their habits and appearance.

"The Moa was twice as large as an Ostrich, in fact," said Stella. "The Ostrich is its descendant, and Moa have left down the ages after them yet another descendant, the Kiwi bird."

Plumie began to giggle. "What a foolish name!" he laughed. "There is something about Plumie's laugh that makes everyone who hears him join in, and in about one-half of a second the other three Brownies (and even the Whining Fairy) were all laughing as hard as they could. They laughed so heartily that pretty soon, even though they were still laughing, they had forgotten just what they were really laughing about. Have you ever heard a little child laugh that way? I have. They laugh so long and they laugh so hard and they have such fun laughing that they soon forget what the joke was."

"The Kiwi," Stella at last explained, "is ever so much smaller than the Moa or even the Ostrich. It is only about two feet long, though it reminds one very much of what the huge Moa must have looked like, for it also has no wings."

"Mrs. Kiwi," Stella continued, "once came to the End-of-the-Earth with a wish for me to grant. It was to make her much larger than Mr. Kiwi, for it seems he was continually boasting about his enormous Moa ancestor and his own size, and she rather got on Mrs. Kiwi's nerves. Now that she is bigger than he is he no longer seems so fond of the subject and she has some peace. When she was here she told me all about herself."

"Oh, I liked her," cried the Brownies. "She said that Kiwi cannot fly and that they are very fast runners. She told me they only go out after dark and spend the days at home in their nests, which they build in hollows at the foot of some tree. Mrs. Kiwi, she said, added, 'seemed particularly proud of her egg, which she talked a lot about. She only has a single one at a time in her nest, and she said it is terribly large and creamy white.'"

"It strikes me," laughed Plumie, "that they are a very boastful lot! Mr. Kiwi boasts to Mrs. Kiwi about his size, and she comes over to me to make her bigger than him so that he can't boast any more and then she starts to boast about to you about her one and only egg!"

"Yes," answered Stella, "she did. 'I know it,' the Brownie said triumphantly. 'And what about?'"

"Her nose!" the Brownie said. "I suppose she thought it the biggest, longest and the most beautiful nose in the world!"

"Well," admitted the Fairy, "I can't say that it was pretty, but it certainly was long! But the thing that is strange about the Kiwi is that it is really a bill."

"But everyone knows that bills are long!"

"Yes," laughed Stella; "but the odd thing about the Kiwi bill is that, unlike most birds the nostrils are at the tip end of it. Here is a picture of the Kiwi."

"Goodness!" said Plumie when he saw it. "I certainly don't think much of Kiwi—with all their boasting and nothing to boast about—at least in looks!"

"You'll notice," said Stella, "that in life those are the only ones that ever boast."

the room, "Oh, Elinor! Is it time to get up already?" and the edge is immediately taken off her homelike face. Of course you will guess at once to whom the voice belongs, so why should I try to be mysterious? I simply to whom the curiosity of a possible but improbable reader?

A week ago today Mrs. Bingham and Mr. Livingston went to Carbon City "to bring out the Christmas presents," as Mrs. Bingham is calling the freight when they came home. She sat at dusk, Sunny busy chattering about the presents, and Mrs. Bingham, Claus's lack of pretending to listen but with my thoughts thousands of miles away. It was very windy and windy they could not hear anything outside the house, and I did not know that "Mother and Claus" had returned until someone slipped up behind my chair and blundered me with a hand of cold but very hot hands.

"Guess, Miss Eliot," laughed Mr. Livingston.

"Oh, Auntie Elinor," shouted Sunny, almost beside herself with excitement, "guess who's here. We'll have a good time now, you bet!"

For Christmas Mrs. Bingham let Sunny's slang pass unreprieved.

I had been blundered by that particular sort of blunder too often to be in doubt as to their identity, but I could not get their owner's name past the barrier of my own mind. Mrs. Bingham, for of course it was no one else—was half laughing and half crying, and saying over and over, "I wanted to come when you were sick, but Dad wouldn't let me, because I never had scarlet fever. And you might have died away out here, with nobody to care whether you got better or not."

"Oh, I say," Miss Arnold, that is rather unfair," objected Mr. Livingston. And when neither Mary nor I answered him, he picked Sunny up and left the room, saying in a mock-tragic voice as he went, "We may just as well make ourselves scarce, kiddie. Auntie Elinor doesn't want us any more." Mrs. Bingham followed them.

I lighted the gas and then turned Mary around and around to see if she had changed. She is, if anything, prettier than ever, and in her long grey squirrel coat and grey squirrel turban (trimmed with pink ribbons) she made a charming picture. I trembled for the susceptible Mr. Page.

To tell the truth, the Bar B men, from Mr. Bingham to Lee, are all more or less susceptible to Mary's charms. The very morning after she arrived she went into the kitchen, borrowed a big spoon from Lee, and proceeded to make an immense dish of chocolate fudge. Lee all the while looking on with unguessed admiration, and having her the necessary articles almost before she asked for them—and with the rest of us Lee is absolute monarch in his own domain.

Then, too, Mary tries disagreeably with Mr. Livingston, when she insists upon calling her "The Little One," and she returns the compliment by calling her "The Little One," altogether regardless of who hears him. On Christmas Eve the Davises, the McMurrys, Mr. Page and Miss Marshall were here for dinner, and Miss Marshall's face as she watched Mary and Mr. Livingston was a study in expression. Mary and I went upstairs with her when she went to put on her evening dress and she took the opportunity to ask Mary if she had known Mr. Livingston long.

"Why, no," replied Mary, almost too sweetly; "I never saw him until last summer!"

A New Device

Danish Inventor Would Make Every Auto a Fire Engine.

John Ellehammer, a Danish electrical engineer, has invented a device which will turn a motor car into a fire engine at a minute's notice. The attachment, which is not much bigger than an ordinary alarm clock, will throw water to a height of 50 feet.

Mr. Ellehammer believes his invention will solve the problem of adequate protection against fire in villages and mansions at a minimum cost.

The first machine for sewing mechanically was patented in 1790.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant soft white light, better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 25 leading universities and found to be superior to 16 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (condol).

The inventor, T. V. Johnson, 679 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Warning From Von Hindenburg

The speech made by Field-Marshal von Hindenburg, on his seventy-fifth birthday, is to be noted. "We must, above all," he said, "have men who know well how to exploit the possibilities of modern policy." There could be no clearer warning that Germany will make mischief if rifts are discovered in the Entente.

GASSED OVERSEAS

SHELL SHOCKED and RHEUMATISM

Mr. F. M. Blaquiere, Moriville, Alta., writes: "After three years service overseas I returned to Canada almost a complete wreck. I had been gassed, and was suffering from shell shock and rheumatism, and was so nervous I could not sleep at night. I tried many medicines and doctors, but none of them did me any good for any length of time. I got so bad, in the Fall of 1919, my hands were so completely paralyzed I could not hold anything and it seemed as if I had a steel band pressing on my head. The least excitement would almost drive me mad, and my whole system seemed to be in disorder. I had cramps in my legs nearly every night and hot and cold chills running up and down my back nearly all the time. One day I tried Mr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and after I had taken six boxes I began to feel better. I kept on using them and after a while I was completely relieved."

Sound Converted Into Power

London May Be Lighted By Noise Of Traffic

The prospect of London being lit by the noise of its own traffic is suggested as the result of a new application of Piezo-electricity—a process by which sound is converted into power. Piezo-electricity is the property possessed by certain crystals whereby they generate electricity when subjected to vibration. Two Cambridge undergraduates have harnessed this force to the needs of commerce, and the invention is being shown at the Wireless Exhibition in London.

Spanish Police Learn Jiu Jitsu

Jap System of Self-Defense Taught by German Instructor

A German policeman has just finished giving instruction in Jiu-Jitsu, the Japanese method of self-protection, to the Spanish police.

Here Wozny of the Berlin criminal police department returned recently from the engagement for a brief visit home. Having established a reputation in Berlin as a police instructor, especially in Jiu-Jitsu, Wozny's services were "borrowed" by the Spanish authorities. His commission included the development of police Jiu-Jitsu teachers at Barcelona and instruction looking toward the establishment of a Jiu-Jitsu squad in Madrid.

Morning finds him wholly untended for a day of business, and yet, business must still be carried through. All this night suffering and lack of rest can be avoided by the use of Dr. J. C. Kallag's Asthma Remedy, which positively does drive away the attacks.

Beggar Scorns Police Wagon

Drove Detective to Court in Expensive Motor Car

Frederick Hammill, a homeless beggar, who has a ranch in North Dakota, drove the detective who arrested him for begging to a New York police station in a $3,000 sedan, and later insisted on taking his captor and himself to night court in a taxicab.

"I won't go to court with these bums," he shouted, pointing to other beggars and motley offenders who were about to be crowded into the police wagon.

As a beggar, he had Hammill in every way surpassed the young mendicant who was lately a guest at a hotel on Broadway.

Hammill drives around the country cooking and sleeping in his car, a big sedan, fitted with a kitchenette and a small bed.

"He told me," said the detective who made the arrest, "that he made a good income by begging and had invested $20,000 in a ranch in North Dakota, but was not prepared yet to retire and devote himself to farming."

Hammill told the police he was not the sort of business man to put all his eggs into one basket. He said he was 45 years old and had lost his legs through infantile paralysis. He said his home was "in the south."

Victims of Lynch Law

Many Punished in States Without Any Discoverable Reason

During the thirty-three years since 1859, eighty-three women have been lynched in the United States. Of these, seventeen were of Caucasian blood. Mississippi heads the list with fifteen instances. Texas comes next with ten, and Alabama third with nine. Many of these disgraceful deaths have been based on the charge of murder, but in a surprising number no reason has been discoverable.

In the same period of time the total number of victims of lynch law was 5,346, of whom white men and women numbered 718. An attempt is being made to enroll a million women among the "Anti-Lynching Crusaders" who will seek to create public sentiment throughout the country against this most abhorrent of all the examples of mob violence. The organization will also support the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill in Congress.

Royalty Saved Fishing Crew

King Victor's Daughters Aid Him in Rescue Feat

King Victor Emmanuel is pictured in advice from San Rospore in the role of rescuer of an endangered fishermen's party.

While the King was out on a fishing expedition with the Royal Princesses at the mouth of the Arno, in Tuscany, he saw a short distance away a sailboat being carried into danger by a strong current. The royal party hurried to the rescue.

The King and the Princesses got out and standing in water up to their hips threw a rope to the fishermen and then joined in tugging them in by pulling sailor fashion.

Tullio Romeo, the owner of the fishing boat, insisted on presenting them with a basket of fish. He nearly fainted when the Princesses and the King told him who they were.

Constipation is caused by a torpid condition of the liver. Dosing with salts, castor oil, etc., to move the bowels, cannot afford more than a temporary relief.

If you are to rid yourself of this ailment and the scores of annoying symptoms and diseases which come in its wake, it is necessary to get the liver right by such treatment as is suggested in this letter:

Mrs. Alvin Richards, R. R. No. 1, Shelby, Ky., Ont., writes:

"For two years I was afflicted with indigestion, and in the morning when I got up my breath was bad. I had a poor appetite, and just felt like eating certain foods. I used many different medicines as a laxative without benefit, and the doctor's medicines did not help me. Canadian Fur Farming

New Industry Making Rapid Progress
According to Reports

The total amount received by Canadian fur farmers in 1921, from the sale of live fur-bearing animals and pelts was $1,499,106, compared with $1,151,556, in 1920. To these totals silver foxes contributed 56 per cent in 1921, and 57 per cent in 1920. The number of silver foxes sold was 2,925, valued at $443,976, a general average of $289. The number of silver fox pelts sold was 3,922, valued at $596,809, an average of $152 per pelt.

The number of fur farms in Canada in 1921, was 421, according to a statement of the Bureau of Statistics. They comprise 718 fox farms, 12 mink, 10 raccoon, 3 marten, 3 beaver, 3 muskrat and 4 kanakul sheep farms. The total increase over 1920 in the number of farms was 225. By provinces the fur farms were located as follows: Prince Edward Island, 375; Nova Scotia, 108; New Brunswick, 64; Quebec, 109; Ontario, 94; Prairie Provinces, 25; British Columbia and Yukon, 37.

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from food, and malnutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the stomach conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nutriment of the child is absorbed and development in every way encouraged.

An Engineering Wonder

Tower Which Spreads Concrete Over Ten Acres

The Inlay Concrete Chuting Tower in the grounds of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley raises concrete by means of a lift and distributes it over ground anywhere within a radius of about 450 feet—over ten acres.

Concrete is hoisted up the framework of the tower, which is 160 feet high, and thrown into position without handling. The distance which it is thrown can be altered according to requirements.

In this way hundreds of tons of concrete can be laid daily.

Will Soon Regain Pre-War Business With Foreign Countries

Trade's activities were suggested by two of Canada's trade commissioners who met from widely different fields in Winnipeg. Dr. J. W. Ross, Canada's "ambassador" of trade in China, was at the Royal Alexandra Hotel on his way back to his post at Shanghai, which he describes as the commercial metropolis of China, and Major G. B. Johnson, Canada's trade commissioner to Scotland, accidentally met him while on his way west, inquiring into industrial affairs in this country before returning to his post at Glasgow.

Dr. Ross thinks it somewhat of a pity that Canada is not more enlightened in its appreciation of the tremendous commercial development which is transforming China into a highly productive and of a quickly changing nation capable of tremendous absorption of foreign imports. Major Johnson sees a slow, but sure, return being made by Great Britain to its former supremacy, if not to its former volume of trade in the many foreign fields it has had to recapture and rebuild since the great war. And as its imports—then a heavy burden—return being made by Great Britain to its former supremacy, if not to its former volume of trade in the many foreign fields it has had to recapture and rebuild since the great war.

Dye Stockings Or Sweater In

Diamond Dyes

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded, skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no need to read, or mix. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

World's Huge Gold Production

Over Eight Hundred Million Fine Ounces in 430 Years

Eight hundred and seventy-five million fine ounces of gold, valued at $18,000,000,000 have been produced by the world since Columbus discovered America. About $5,000,000,000 are in circulation as money or in the hands and public treasuries of the world—$2,000,000,000 is in the United States treasury. The other $10,000,000,000 worth of gold has been used up in the industrial arts or has disappeared in the 430 years since the keeping of accurate gold statistics began.

Praise For Alberta

Provincial Publicity Man Says Now Is Time to Invite Settlers

"Alberta looks like a land of promise to a good many people in the Western States, and there was never a more opportune time to invite them over," says C. G. Croft, Provincial publicity Commissioner, who has returned from a tour of several state and interstate fairs with the Alberta exhibit set of pictures, samples and general publicity literature. During the tour he was everywhere on the road, the display of agricultural and mineral products from this province was seen by thousands of people and awakened a great amount of interest. Some of the folks said they would be coming over pretty soon.

The Alberta exhibit was shown at the big Midland Empire Fair at Billings, Montana; the Utah State Fair at Salt Lake City; and at Twin Falls, Idaho, in the heart of the irrigation country; while Mr. Croft and M. D. Mills, the latter representing the Dominion Government Immigration Department, also spent three days at the Colorado State Fair at Pueblo, with literature and a line of talk.

Vancouver Grain Market. The development of grain trade from the Canadian prairies to the Orient and to Europe by the Panama Canal through the port of Vancouver has reached the point where it is proposed by the city to spend $500,000 to erect a great grain elevator here. The capacity of the proposed elevator will be 750,000 bushels, and it is to be financed partly by the city and partly by private capital.

Memorial to British Sailors. A memorial tower, 150 feet high, has just been completed at Montreal in honor of British sailors lost in the war. It stands out on the river, where all passing ships may see it, and in the form of a huge coil and signal tower, electrically operated from shore.

Ukraine Villages Picturesque

Houses Built of Mud Bricks Tinted in Water Colors

Lack of wood in the Ukraine has led French and German colonists to build houses of mud bricks, held together by straw. These bricks are carefully plastered over with mud and when dry the mud is tinted in water colors. One house will be a bright blue, another yellow, the next one pink or green, and the village as a whole makes a colorful picture. Plores upon which the houses stand are surrounded by low walls made of the same material and joined to correspond with the house. Gardens are well kept in summer, and there is an abundance of fruit trees.

Harold H. Fisher, historian of the American relief administration, recently visited both the German and French colonies in the Ukraine. The German villages near the mouth of the Dniester, across from Bessarabia, he describes as exceedingly picturesque and as spick and span as any along the Rhine. "Protestants settle in one village, the Catholics in another," said Mr. Fisher. "One can recognize the prevailing religion of the village by the shape of the church spires. I also visited the French colonies in the Nicolae district. These people were brought to the Ukraine years ago to establish vineyards, and to promote the wine industry. They have made a success of their vinticulture, but this year their crop has been very small. They, too, have been hard hit by the famine."

The French and German colonists have been in Russia several generations, but have not as yet been sufficiently Russified to speak the language of the country, or to adopt its customs.

Big Output of Gold

In a report after a survey of the mines of Northern Ontario, Mr. John McLeish, Director of the Mines Branch of the Dominion Government, states that the production of gold this year will reach at least $20,000,000. Next year he was of the opinion that the output would be even greater. The production in 1921 amounted to $16,000,000.

STOMACH TROUBLE? INDIGESTION?

Here's Good News For You

Lindsay, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine I have ever taken for stomach trouble. For many years I suffered with gastric stomach trouble and nervous indigestion. Would be so bad at times that it was necessary for me to be in bed two or three days at a time. I have doctored and taken many different medicines with little result. Just recently I began taking Golden Medical Discovery and it has given me relief. I am now able to eat the medicines I have ever taken. My stomach does not bother me and I have not had any indigestion since taking this medicine. I can highly recommend the 'Discovery' to others who suffer with stomach trouble." Mrs. Geo. A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE

It Seems So in Many Cases and Good Health is Always Necessary

Viscount, Saskatchewan.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and burning down inside the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unable to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommended it as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down as my 15-year-old daughter has taken it and is quite her own self again."—Mrs. W. E. Harris, Viscount, Saskatchewan.

I Live On A Farm

Upper New Horton, N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and they have done me a world of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as I live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this will help someone else."—Mrs. W. E. Harris, Upper New Horton, New Brunswick.

Many Lawyers Members of Congress

Of the five hundred and thirty men and one woman who are members of Congress more than three hundred are lawyers. Twenty-four are engaged in some sort of farming; there are twenty editors and publishers; sixteen bankers and the same number of manufacturers. No other occupation has as many as ten representatives.

THE AVERAGE WOMAN NEEDS MORE BLOOD

Poor Blood the Cause of Headaches and Run Down Feeling

To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined to the house, either through household duties or the care of children, or both—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. Her nerves are easily irritated, and she worries over little things; has severe headaches and backaches and generally feels worn out. With the woman who uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the condition is different. She is always well and the care of her children or household duties is a real pleasure. This is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich and purify the blood, supply which brings vigorous health and strength. Mrs. H. Everett, Parry Harbour, Ont., has used these pills with benefit and says:—"I can not recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. I was run down and very weak, and after using the pills I felt like a different woman. They are wonderful strength builders. For nursing mothers they are a blessing, at least I have found them so."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent by mail. Each bottle costs a cent or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Japanese Using Chairs

The aged custom of the Japanese of sitting down on their folded legs on a cushion or mat is going out of fashion. All the schools are using chairs and benches of the western style. Public gathering places now have benches, even the Buddhist temples, and in many families chairs and tables are in regular use.

Regulate on the Farm—Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for all in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

B.C. Copper

Bulk of Copper Mined in Canada is Produced in British Columbia

Although producing the bulk of copper mined in Canada, British Columbia has only three small plants manufacturing brass and copper articles, with an annual production of $57,312, as compared with 59 manufacturing plants in Canada, with an annual production value of $13,760,311. The bulk of the manufacturing plants are in Ontario and Quebec. Ontario has 39 plants, producing $6,774,006 worth of goods; Manitoba, 3, producing $1,548,993; Quebec, 12, $5,525,163; and New Brunswick, 2, producing $477,750.

Kaiser's Memoirs Inaccurate

Sir Valentine Chirol, once Berlin correspondent of the London Times, finds the Kaiser's memoirs full of inaccuracies. He says they seem to hear out the somewhat-bitter words which the Emperor Frederick had once the occasion to use in speaking of her son: "The trouble with Willy has always been that he could never tell the truth, even to himself."

We know men who turn glad smiles toward people who help them make money, and stern frowns toward their wives who help them save it.

Minard's Liniment For Disasters

World Traveler Gives Tanlac High Praise

"Tanlac has restored me to such excellent health that I can recover it most sincerely. It brought me complete relief after I had been in the hospital two months with neuritis, and built me up in a short time from a dreadfully run-down condition."

This emphatic statement was made by Mrs. Virgil Angelo Short, highly esteemed resident of 2129, 24th Ave., Calgary. Mrs. Short is a woman of exceptional education and refinement. She has traveled extensively, having been practically all over the world. She lived in London and Paris several years and had visited Smyrna, recently burned in the Turko-Grecian conflict, and Constantinople.

"About a year ago," said Mrs. Short, "I was attacked by neuritis. It caused terrific pain in my knees, ankles, arms and shoulders. The soreness and stiffness were exceptionally severe, and often my ankles and joints would be painfully swollen. I could not walk, every attempt causing me perfect agony and I was unable to rest day or night."

"On the urgent advice of a nurse I began taking Tanlac. Within two weeks I was so much improved I was able to walk about the house. I took four bottles, and at present I am totally free from any trace of my old malady. I will always feel that I am deeply indebted to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Department of Bee Husbandry

University of Saskatchewan Has New Course This Year

When the University of Saskatchewan opened its doors for the fall term it had a new department of bee husbandry, optional with students taking the agrarian lectures. The novel feature is that this department is presided over by a woman, Miss J. H. Bayford, who has raised bees for fifteen years. In 1921, she gathered 250 pounds of honey on her farm at Wawota, Sask., which she marketed at 70 cents a pound and the agricultural college decided to enlist her services when the new course was established.

A Large Order

"I want a store to put on around the house," said the lady in the department store.

"How large is your house, madam?" inquired the new clerk—Hollywood High School News.

When a dead doe was found on a Montana farm and the farmer pleaded guilty to having same in his possession, he was fined $25. Reminds one of something that might have happened in Canada. In this case the farmer stated that he did not kill the animal and knew nothing of how it came to be upon his property; but, unfortunately, as he was the owner of the land he was technically in possession of the deer.

At the next session of the Nova Scotia legislature, amendments to the Liquor Act as follows will be introduced: (1) To remedy abuses in the giving of prescriptions and certificates for liquor, (2) to provide that the Board of Vendor Commissioners refuse to fill orders for excessive or unreasonable quantities, and the appointment of a sufficient number of government inspectors to ensure proper oversight and enforcement of the act.
